LETTERS AND TOMATOES DEPT.

THE MANGE EVENT

Congratulations on using the much underutilized word "mange" three times in MAD #305. This is certainly a record. I seriously doubt that you will be able to refer to mange more than three times in a future issue.

Matthew Pederson
Starbuck, MN

Sorry, Matty—you have drippy, gooey egg off over your face! Our multiple use of the word "mange" is nowhere near a record! The record is held by author Mario Balzani in his book COM-PIETED MAD (plogia: published by Little, Brown and available at bookstores everywhere in November... A fabulous gift for Christmas, Chanukkah or Ramadan!) In that book, the word "mange" appears over 3,000 times, all in reference to MAD Publisher William Gaines! Get it—Ed.

TOLEDO, DETROIT, SANDUSKY: THE GOLDEN TRIANGLE?

I was sitting in a park in Toledo, Ohio reading MAD when suddenly I realized that I was sitting in a park in Toledo, Ohio. I panicked and got in my car, driving north at a great rate of speed. After about an hour, I realized that I was in Detroit! I drove back to Toledo and panicked again! Now I spend my time driving back and forth between Toledo and Detroit. Which should I choose?

Marifrances Conrad
Toledo (7), OH

Marifrances—We respectfully suggest that you forget Detroit and Toledo and head east...to beautiful, cranky Sandusky (Pop. 29,600)! Nestled a scant stone's throw from Detroit and a boulder's throw from Toledo, this shimmering midwestern oasis is a testament to all that is right with America. Boasting such landmarks as the controversial "Boy with the Boats" statue (donated to the town over 100 years ago by an unknown and completely forgotten forgotten sculptor), Sandusky is also the home of basketball superstar Scott May!

While passing through Sandusky, we suggest that you stop for a bite at Michael's (formerly The Brookfield Nook), which is proudly owned by Sandusky's Mayor, the Honorable Mike Krassner! (Be sure to tell 'em MAD sent you! Oh yes, Marifrances—there is one more thing—while you're in Sandusky, GET A LIFE!

P.S.—As we went to press, we received word of the tragic beheading of the "Boy with the Boats." We will investigate further and present an update in our next issue... NO!—Ed.

ENVELOPE OF THE MONTH

This issue's Envelope of the Month comes to us from Claire Morris of Austin, TX. Based on her Duck-Edwing style drawing, we can see that this is one cannibal who isn't on a low-fat diet! Fal

MORON MAIL

You guys would probably publish any letter with some stupid, obvious fact in it, so here's one of them. Did you ever notice that the Commanding General in Operation Desert Storm, Norman Schwarzkopf, has the word "war" in his name?

Scott Fleming
Huntington Beach, CA

Scottie—Interesting fact. We once made a similar observation about Dick Cavett. —Ed.

Did famed "Peanuts" creator Charles Schulz send us this original drawing to show his appreciation for our "Mutt Life" spoof on the back cover of MAD #306, or did he send it to prove he had nothing to do with it? You decide!

ENVELOPE OF THE MONTH PART II

Here's a sketch from our first two-time Envelope of the Month artist, Ontario, Canada's Dan Saalberg! This time, Dan sends us a picture of an advanced-in-age Alfred. Oh, by the way, the nurse in the background is cringing because she realizes it's sponge-bath time!

You thought the first Arnold Schwarzenegger Terminator movie was long? Well the second is ...

I'm a Cybore, a human like machine that has the strength of a thousand men, the brain of a dozen computers, and the language skills of a four-year-old! My mission is to save a kid's life—because in the future, he'll save the planet from a new form of murderous machine men! Of course, I could just go and blow up the factory where the machine men of the future are being manufactured, but then there'd be no movie!

I'm a Cybore too! But a much more advanced model! I can heal myself if I'm shot, regenerate myself if I'm blown apart, and most amazing of all—I can open shrink-wrapped packages in seconds! I can re-form my body to look exactly like someone else! I made myself into an exact clone of the real cop I just killed! And already I can imitate his actions! See? I've given all those cars "illegal parking" tickets! I'm here to kill that kid, John Common, so the Earth can be destroyed by machines! I have to hurry, though, because it looks like the Earth might be destroyed by humans first, and that will ruin my chance for some fun!

I'm Sadder, John Common's Mother! I insist I've already seen a nuclear blast that takes place in the future, but that's not why they keep me in a mental ward! I'm locked up because I thought "Hudson Hawk" was a great movie and Bruce Willis is a great actor!

I'm John, the twelve-year-old son! My mission in life may be to protect humans from hostile machines in the future, but first I have a much more important assignment! I have to make this robot creep into a lovable, cutesy character by teaching him trite teenage expressions, like "Cowabunga, Dude!"

I'm Mild Diesoon, a scientist working on a top secret computer chip project! Boy, talk about an easy job! The project is so Top Secret I just sit at a desk all day and try to guess what I'm supposed to be working on!

We're the Machine Warriors from the future! Just think of us as evil Robocops on Slimfast diets!

The HALLOWEEN COSTUME Reality

There comes a time in all of our lives when age sets limits on our athletic abilities. But true athletes always remain forever true athletes, even past the time when they start to collect social security. Unfortunately, by then these athletes aren't much competition for their younger counterparts. Their eyesight has dwindled, their hearing is gone and a task as easy as walking has become a chore in itself. Some "Elderly Athletes" get discouraged and call it quits, but others look beyond and find...

A gentle, soothing bath, a glass of warm milk, soft music filling the background air...good old American standbys to help you relax, unwind and perhaps doze off. But these traditional methods pale in comparison to the drowsy, logy, semi-comatose feeling we get when watching a popular, laid back series about a Jewish New York doctor living in Alaska. Of course, we mean...

SNORIN' EXPOSURE

ARTIST: ANGELO TORRES

WRITER: STAN HART

Hey, what's that moose doing in the middle of town?

Beats me! He keeps asking if anyone has seen a flying squirrel with an old aviator's cap and goggles!

The good news about this show is that it will sometimes allow itself a quiet moment!

The bad news is that sometimes that quiet moment lasts for the entire show!

I can't understand why Jowl isn't enamored with Alaska! Consider its beauty and natural resources—miles of beaches, vast amounts of oil...

even if it is in the same place!

Admit it, O'Connell, you have a love/hate relationship with me!

Right! I love doctors and I hate schmucks!

The mutual attraction that they hide by being antagonistic towards each other is something you don't see very often!

Not unless you watch how pre-teens act in junior high school!

Pinocchio Has a Bad Week!

ARTIST: JOHN POUND

WRITER: DAN BIRTCHER

Tests reveal he's picked up a bad case of termites from a wooden toilet seat.

The real boys at his school play a cruel joke on him.

He discovers that his antiperspirant does nothing to prevent embarrassing sap stains.

After passing a few hours whittling with Gepetto, he is unable to find his left foot.

Alone in his room, he wonders why so many people believe it's lucky to knock on wood.

SATURDAY

He attends Jiminy Cricket's funeral after his friend dies an untimely death on a Shell No-Pest Strip.

SUNDAY

Told that Finishing School is no place for a boy like him, he is packed off to refinishing school.

WHITETAIL DEER:

4 years old. Forest creature and a member of the Nature's Revenge Association.

"Every year my peaceful woodland home is invaded by thousands of hunters who shoot at me with rifles and guns with absolutely no provocation on my part. Usually I'm just walking around, minding my own business or chewing on some berries when BANG! A bullet goes flying past my head. Now don't get me wrong, I have nothing against sportsmen, but I don't like being the target of some accountant from Scarsdale out for a weekend with his buddies. All of the bears, rabbits, racoons and other forest creatures I've spoken to feel pretty much the same way.

"That's why we formed the NRA—Nature's Revenge Association. We've learned that a hunter will have a new appreciation and respect for an animal that's armed as heavily as he is. We know that guns aren't toys...

Believe me, we know. So we teach our members gun safety and train them not to shoot unless they've been shot at first... a lesson most hunters haven't learned yet.

"So this year we're ready. We've been practicing for months. We've got our permits. And we're determined to have a safe hunting season for all involved. If you want to visit our home and take our pictures, fine. But keep your guns in the cities where they belong.

No one wants to be the deer-ly departed."
